THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION

1. The section of the Polish coast between Kolobrzeg (Kolberg) and Wolin island is to be closed to all shipping. The official reason is the establishment of a central base at Kolobrzeg for the Polish fishing industry. The real reason is to close off from outsiders this large training area in order to carry out experiments with new weapons, units and equipment.
2. The port of Kolobrzeg has become a base for small boats, mostly speedboats of Soviet origin and with Soviet crews. Polish fishing cutters and trawlers are rarely to be seen there. Larger numbers of Soviet speedboats than ever are to be seen along the Polish coast, but no larger naval units have been seen.
3. It is also possible that along the coast there are being erected launching sites for "V" rockets, of which more and more is being spoken in Poland. However, nothing concrete can yet be ascertained.
4. The naval base at Rügen is said to be a base for submarines and destroyers, and occasionally light cruisers anchor there.
